Charles Bridge tower to undergo multiyear renovation

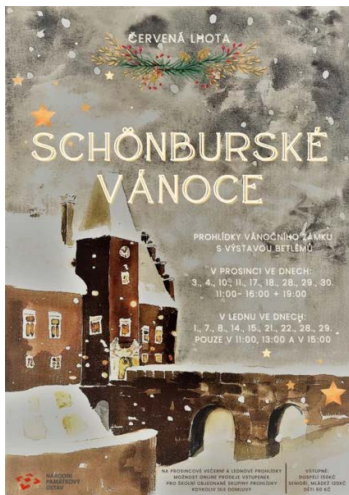

The tower on the Old Town side of Charles Bridge will undergo its most extensive renovation since its original construction in the 14th century. The first repairs have already taken place in the autumn. After the winter, a survey of the tower shell will determine the full extent of the needed repairs. Initial phase of the thorough reconstruction will mainly concern the upper shell of the tower, including the complete replacement of some of the stones, and will take place over the next four years. Czech Philharmonic • Christmas Concert

Ryba's Mass is a Czech Christmas tradition, and the Czech Philharmonic

has programmed it repeatedly. This time, it will be in a unique collaboration with a specialist in the Baroque and Classical repertoire, the conductor Václav Luks and his Collegium Vocale. Ryba's Mass will be followed by Mozart's Coronation Mass. Prague, Rudolfinum, Dvorak's Hall, Dec. 20, 2022 at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. More at www.ceskafilharmonie.cz/en

Dialogues in Time / Hommage à Ricardo Bofill

The exhibition Dialogues in Time / Hommage à Ricardo Bofill in the Jaroslav Fragner Gallery focuses on contemporary architecture in a historical context in the territory of the Czech Republic. The exhibition presents more than five dozen realized reconstructions, new buildings, as well as interventions in public space across the country, in which history meets the present sensitively. A separate section is dedicated to the architect Ricardo Bofill (1939–2022), whose realizations significantly influenced the current character of the Prague's quarter of Karlín. Prague, Jaroslav Fragner Gallery, thorough Dec. 28, 2022. More at www.gjf.cz/en

Holy Night. Christmas in Fine Arts

The Christmas exhibition explores the subject of the birth of Jesus Christ and the related festivities as shown in prints, drawings and miniatures dating from the Middle Ages and Renaissance to the 20th century.

The presented artists include Albrecht Dürer, Jan Sadeler, Rembrandt van Rijn, Hermína Laukotová, Vojtěch Preissig, and Bohuslav Reynek.

The exhibition also introduces visitors to the special characteristics of a Czech Christmas through the iconic works of Mikoláš Aleš and Josef Lada. The last part of the exhibition is devoted to the commercial aspect of the Christmas season in modern times. Even despite the shopping fever and ubiquitous rush, Christmas has retained its mysterious and joyful atmosphere and it continues to be the celebration of love, understanding, and good will in the first place. Prague, Schwarzenberg Palace, Dec. 6, 2022 – March 5, 2023.

Šárka Trčková – Secrets

The retrospective exhibition presents a selection from the prematurely closed work of the Czech graphic artist and painter Šárka Trčková (1965–2015). Her delicate watercolours, small-format paintings and large-scale graphics reflect her obsession with work, her elemental relationship to color and her mastery of a wide range of art techniques. GASK, Kutná Hora, through March 12, 2023. More at www.gask.cz/en

mk²: Museum Kampa in Moravský Krumlov

The newly opened mk² exhibition at the Castle in Moravský Krumlov is a varied “tasting” of artworks from the collections of Prague’s Museum Kampa. It presents a collection of paintings and sculptures by leading figures of the Czech unofficial scene from the 1960s to the 1980s (such as Adriena Šimotová, Karel Nepraš, and Stanislav Kolíbal), as well as works by exiled artists (such as Ludmila Seefried-Matějková and Zbyněk Sekal), regional artists (such as Jindřich Boška and František Dörfel), and works by prominent contemporaries (such as Jan Merta, Petr Veselý, and Josef Achrer). The collection of paintings and sculptures by these famous (or, on the contrary, neglected) personalities forms a lively structure interwoven with many styles which reveals the diversity and internal context of our art scene. This intimate, yet emotionally rich mk² exhibition will bring to mind the admirable work of Mrs. Meda Mládek, and, for visitors to Moravský Krumlov, will become an inspiration to visit Sovovy Mlýny in Prague, where Museum Kampa is located and holds short-term exhibitions. More at www.museumkampa.cz/exhibitions/

Štěpán Zavřel: Journey to the Stars

The playful exhibition Journey to the Stars presents, for the first time in the Czech Republic, work of the world-famed and internationally acclaimed illustrator Štěpán Zavřel. Take a journey through magical landscapes to find the star of Bethlehem and be drawn into stories full of miracles dating back more than thousand years. Be enchanted by the magic of the Garden of Eden, build the mythical Tower of Babel, and peer into a picturesque world where kings wander the desert and shepherds watch the night sky and await the birth of the baby Jesus. 3+ galerie, Kláštery Český Krumlov, through April 30, 2023.
