“...Czechs and Moravians love their wine just as much as they love their beer.”

THE SECRET LAND OF WINE – THE WINE REGION OF MORAVIA

The Czech Republic has two lands where wine is grown: Bohemia and Moravia. Vine planting and wine production has an historic tradition in both of them. The wine produced has a protected designation of origin: Čechy (in Bohemia) and Morava (in Moravia). While the Wine Region Čechy has just 900 ha of vineyards, the Wine Region Morava has about 17,200 ha. Wine production from the wine region Čechy is not large in volume, so, that is why we focus on Morava.

Wine is synonymous to South Moravia as beer is to the Czech lands. Moravian wine may not be as well known yet as Czech beer but the tradition for growing and producing wine in the region goes back many centuries. Viticulture in South Moravia was first introduced by the Romans more than 2000 years ago. Since then vine growing and wine making is part of the rich tradition, economy, culture and society of South Moravia. Already in medieval times Moravian wines had a good name in the neighbouring lands, kingdoms and states. Up to 1948 Czech and Moravian wines were well known around Europe but the Iron Curtain discontinued many trade relations and thus consumers around the world lost the experience of wine from South Moravia.

Since the Velvet Revolution in 1989 however Czech and Moravian wines have slowly been regaining their position in Europe, the USA and Asia with unique wines of high quality being exported. In the last three decades, Moravian viticulture has gone through some quite revolutionary changes with vineyards cultivated in an environmentally friendly way and wineries introducing modern technology in grape processing. The wines can be characterised as having an interesting aroma, rich extractive agents and a harmonious combination full of taste with fresh acids. The red wines are full bodied and distinct in taste and aroma with fruity, smooth velvety tones.

The main white must varieties grown are Rulandské šedé (Pinot Gris), Chardonnay, Ryzlink rýnský (Riesling), Sauvignon (Sauvignon Blanc), Müller Thurgau, Veltlínské zelené (Grüner Veltliner) and others. The most red must varieties planted are Frankovka (Blafränkisch), Svatovavřínecké (Saint Laurent), Zweigeltrebe and Merlot. The wine region Morava is divided into 4 wine sub-regions: Znojemská, Mikulovská, Velkopavlovická and Slovácká.

The reasons why the Morava wine region offers unique, endlessly diverse wines which stand out can be put down to three main things – geological diversity and soil conditions, a climate which differs from the majority of European wine growing regions and, the very rugged countryside relief. Czech and Moravian Wines are today now among the top in Central Europe and are winning major prizes at some of the world’s best wine trade shows such as the platinum awarded to a Moravian wine at the London Decanter World Wine Awards in 2018 and golds in San Francisco and New York among others in the last few years.

This is the year to Think Czech when Thinking Wine.

Dear Ladies and Gentlemen,

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you to Czech and Moravian Wine Day 2019 at the Embassy of the Czech Republic in London. Czechs and Moravians love their wine just as much as they love their beer. In fact, our wines are one of our best kept secrets, which is only being internationally discovered thanks to the awards at a very high level being won by wines from the Czech Republic at some of the world's most important shows, such as the Decanter World Wine Awards in London, and other renowned competitions in San Francisco, New York and Vienna to name just a few. The 15 wineries attending today all come from my home region of South Moravia. Some of them are small family firms while others are larger producers. There is however one thing they all have in common - their love of the vines they tend and their desire to produce wines which are unique. I hope that, like me, you will agree that these are wines which should be shared with the Great British public. I wish you good business dealings.

VINAŘSTVÍ PIÁLEK & JÄGER s. r. o.

Piálek & Jäger

WINERY

COMPANY PROFILE:
In general, we sort our wines into three categories. We make lighter classic variety wines. Then we produce wines that are typical for this region and have VOC appellation award, and finally wines made in oak barrels such as our great burgundy style Chardonnay Grand Reserva.

AWARDS RECEIVED:
Besides awards at local wine exhibitions, we have received two stars at the AWC Vienna wine exhibition and the title "The Best National Winery of the Year 2018". We have also received silver medals at the Decanter London exhibition for Chardonnay, Riesling, Pinot blanc and Sauvignon varieties.

LOOKING FOR IN THE UK:
We would like to find a distributor who would sell our wines primarily to restaurants, wine bars and accomplished wine shops. Potentially to private clientele as well.

REFERENCES:
We sell our wines mainly to top-ranking gastronomic facilities, and restaurants awarded with Michelin Stars. Some of the restaurants that offer our wines are La Boheme Degustation, Field, Alcron, Paloma, Teresa u Zlaté Studně, Coda etc. We also export our wines to Germany, Switzerland, Indonesia and Austria.

COMPANY PROFILE:
We are a family boutique winery producing small batches of unique wines. We focus mainly on making wines for gastronomy, aiming to give our clients the full experience of enjoying their meals by pairing them with the right wine, therefore enhancing their gastronomic experience to the fullest. Yearly production is 60 thousand liters. We only sell bottled quality wine with special attributes.

VINSELEKT MICHLOVSKÝ, a. s.

COMPANY PROFILE:

Vinselekt Michlovsky Inc. was founded by Doc. Ing. Miloš Michlovský, DrSc. in Rakvice in 2003. Our winemaking philosophy is based on respecting nature, traditional values and incorporating new technologies and methods as we know that the terroir is one of the key elements determining the quality of wine.

Sparkling wines make also a big part of our company production. We use the method when fermentation takes place inside the bottle. The wine then ages on its own for a minimum of three years.

New more resistant varieties cultivated by the team at Vinselekt Michlovsky are great for producing ecological wines and grape juices. In the last years the company has also focused on producing non-alcoholic wines.

T: +420 519 360 870

WEBSITE:

www.michlovsky.com

Innovation and creativity are a very important aspect at Vinselekt Michlovský which is shown by a new series of low-alcohol and non-alcoholic sparkling wines, a Terasso (white, rose, red) whose production uses the most advanced technology that allows full retention of the flavour. The VINSELEKT MICHLOVSKÝ company also achieved its BIO Certificate (a product of ecological agriculture).

The annual output of about 1.3 million bottles is categorised into several series, which differ both in grape origin and processing technological. Our wines can be purchased in practically all market segments from premium gastronomy through wine shops and to the retail sector. New vine varieties, cultivated by the team at Vinselekt Michlovsky predominantly used for the bio-production of wines and musts.
